POETRY.

A SONG.

A mouth that is itself a rose,
And scatters roses too;
An eye that borrows from the sky
Its sunshine and its blue;

A laugh, an echo from the song
The lark at morning sings;
A voice—but that has sadder tones,
And tells of tenderer things.

Auburn is her long dark hair
With a golden shine:
Must I tell you more to know
This true love of mine?

I might say she is so kind,
Faithful, fond—but no!
My sweet maiden's hidden heart
None but I may know.

SELECT SENTENCES—FROM BULWER.

The English make business an enjoyment, and enjoyment a business. They are born without a smile.—They rove about public places like so many easterly winds,—cold, sharp, and cutting. When they ask you, "how you do," you would think they were measuring the length of your coffin. They are sometimes polite, but invariably incivil. Their warmth is always artificial—their cold never. They are stiff without dignity, and cringing without manners They offer you an affront, and call it "plain truth:"—they wound your feelings, and tell you it is manly "to speak their minds." At the same time, while they have neglected all the graces and charities of artifice, they have adopted all its falsehood and deceit.

How few there are in the world, who retain, after a certain age, the character originally natural to them!—We all get, as it were, a second skin The little foibles, propensities, eccentricities, we first indulged through affectation, conglomerate and encrust, till the artificiality grows into nature.

I might have known that he was expected, by her abstraction—the restlessness with which she started at times from her seat, and as instantly resumed it—and her fond expecting looks towards the door, every time it shut or opened—which denoted so strongly the absent and dreaming heart of the woman who loves.

Though always confident and self-possessed—though an easy dissimmulator to others,—yet I was like a guilty child before the woman I loved.

Love is the most selfish as well as the noblest of passions. If we cannot have the rapture of blessing, we find a consolation in the power to afflict. 'We would constitute all the happiness, or, if that cannot be, all the unhappiness, of the person we love.'

Common sense tells us, that the best method of employing life is to enjoy it. Common sense tells us, also, the ordinary means of this enjoyment—health, competence, and the indulgence, but the moderate indulgence of our passions Science, therefore, is not necessary to happiness.

The two last cantos of Childe Harold are, perhaps, the most wonderful work ever produced, for the mixture of universal thought with individual interest.

From Lt. Smyth's Journey from Lima to Para, S. America.

Indian Superstition.—We were informed that a whimsical superstitious custom prevails, when a man is obliged to make a distant journey, and cannot take his wife with him. In order to secure to her constancy during his absence, he places a quantity of a certain grass in a hole in the rock—unknown, of course, to the lady—when he sets out; and if, on his return, he finds it withered, the delinquency of the wife is considered as proved, and she is severely chastised One of these curious tests of conjugal fidelity was pointed out to us.

Diet.—Monkeys seem to be the principal article of their animal food, great numbers of which we saw hanging up dried in most of the houses—and they formed no inconsiderable portion of our food till we reached Sarayacu. We at first felt some repugnance to this diet, but habit and necessity got the better of it, and when accustomed to the meat, we found it by no means disagreeable.

Curious Web.—We saw here a gigantic spider's web suspended to the trees—it was about twenty-five feet in height, and near fifty in length—the threads were very strong, and it had the empty sloughs of thousands of insects hanging in it. It appeared to be the habitation of a great number of spiders of a larger size than we ever saw in England.

Indian Astronomy.—Their notion of an eclipse has a curious similarity to that of the Chinese: when the sun is covered by the moon's disk, they suppose him to be struggling with some savage beast, and shout to encourage him, and make all the noise they can, with the view of frightening his antagonist, and discharge burning arrows towards him When the eclipse is over, the usual course of drinking and dancing begins, and is kept up during the remainder of the day and the following night.

The appearance of the new moon is hailed with great joy; they make long addresses to her, imploring her protection, and that she will be so good as to invigorate their bodies. During these harangues they throw themselves into a variety of attitudes and vehement gesticulations.

Rats and Boa Constrictor.—Many of the inhabitants at Para are said to keep boa-snakes in their houses for the purpose of destroying the rats. In the warehouse belonging to Mr Smith, the American Consul, we saw a very large one, which was between fifteen and eighteen feet long: he said it was perfectly tame, and that he never supplied it with any food, and as it never did any mischief he supposed it caught a sufficient quantity of rats for its support. When we saw it, it was partly coiled round a cross-beam fixed to two uprights, which had been placed there for its use. It had lately cast its slough, and the brilliancy of its colors was inconceivably vivid.

Conjugal endearments.—A few days ago, as some troops were parading down Broadway, a lady called to her husband from the other end of their apartment, to see the soldiers. The window was raised and he looked out, when she dropped the sash, and before he could extricate himself from his inconvenient restraint, she applied the poker to his back with wonderful agility, while the blows fell quick, thick, and heavy like a thunder shower. The lady, to all appearance, is perfectly sane, and moves in a distinguished circle; and the husband professes himself totally ignorant of the causes which could have provoked such an ebullition.—N. Y. Trans.

CHESS MEN.—This day received and for sale at CARRUTH'S, No 77, Joy's Buildings, a fresh supply of English Chess Men, large and small sizes—a further supply of Pastonelli & Co's London warranted Thermometers, in box wood and jappaned cases—a few quires only of the celebrated Tracing Paper, designed for drafting and copying plans—Drawing Instruments—Transparent Waters—Mouth Glue, &c june6

BOSTON MORNING POST.

MONDAY, JUNE 27, 1836.

For the Boston Morning Post.

The Surplus Revenue.—In the debates upon the bill relating to the Government Deposites, Mr Webster "again expressed his opposition to any kind of taxation for the purpose of distribution." This appears to me, (whatever may be Mr Webster's ulterior views,) to be a fundamental principle, which should always be kept in sight in the wholesome republican administration of this government. Even if it be proper to distribute any surplus which has already been improperly permitted to accumulate, (which is exceedingly doubtful,) yet measures should immediately—should previously, or at least simultaneously—be taken, so to dimimish the imposts, that all future accumulation may be prevented. Until this be done, it is vain and useless to distribute the surplus. It will be putting the country to sleep, only to awake, in a short time, to the renewed existence of a similar evil, which should now be rendered impossible.

The reasons against such a revenue and such a distribution, in addition to the inequality which must necessarily attend it, and the corruption which it must unavoidably engender, are weighty and numerous.

First—there is no legal method of recalling the money from the several States, when it may be required by the exigency of the government. A State cannot be sued;—nor can Congress lay any special tax to operate exclusively upon any particular State or States. If a State should refuse or neglect to refund the loan when called upon, there is no remedy. This distribution, though nominally a loan, is generally understood to be a gift;—and if ever it should be called for, it will, in many cases, be refused on that ground. If one State should repay, and another refuse, it would be so much the worse: it would operate as a grossly unequal tax upon the paying state.

Second,—the collection of a tax of this kind operates very unequally upon different States, and different classes; and the distribution amongst the people would be not at all like its assessment, or like the proportions in which State taxes are usually levied upon the citizens. It would not be borne, like the usual State, county, and town taxes, in proportion to property and ability. The family of a respectable shop-keeper, worth not more than five or ten thousand dollars, and perhaps nothing, contributes as much towards this surplus revenue as the family of our greatest capitalists, such as Mr B. or Mr P., who are worth millions. The tax, arising from this surplus revenue, is actually paid, in proportion to the consumption of the necessary articles required in a family. This, every body knows, has very little relation to property; but depends chiefly on business, profession, or rank and station in life, not usually implying uncommon wealth. Millions of young men, not worth a hundred dollars each, expend yearly, upon that portion of their clothing which pays the highest duty, double or treble what is so expended by the richest man in Massachusetts.

Third,—this State now receives yearly, from the bank tax and the auction tax, more than enough to discharge all [illegible] of about $30,000. And this is exclusive of the income from our Eastern lands, which is reserved as a fund for the purposes of education. The distribution of the surplus revenue would therefore place at the disposal of our legislature large sums which we do not need;—would create an UNNECESSARY DEBT, a debt totally uncalled for, that would be burthensome to posterity;—and would, moreover, encourage visionary men, without property, to squander it officially upon mad experiments and useless enterprizes.

Whatever imperious necessity there may be, to dispose of this surplus, in some way or other, nothing can justify its future accumulation. Should it be continued, it must be distributed by the States among the towns and counties, as a substitute for the town and county taxes. This would totally set aside all the present equality in the assessment of such taxes. Boston would be paying, besides its own proportion, an important part of the expenses of Southern cities. And with regard to what we should expend, the taxes, as I have already shown, could not be levied according to property:—the poor and middling classes would often pay as much, and frequently more, than the richest classes. The fundamental principles, on which our democratic governments are based, the contribution to the public wants and expenses, in proportion to property, would be entirely set aside. The result of such a system would be most disastrous to the country, and to her best institutions. The value of the money distributed would; it appears to me, bear no proportion to the tremendous evils which must be the inevitable consequence. ☞

Gaming.—Russians of all ranks are found gambling. Draft-boards and chess-tables are rudely marked on the seats and benches, generally found outside the doors of the shops in the bazaar, and the houses in its vicinity; in summer the owners sit here all day, and sleep in the open air at night. But their ingenuity in constructing a draft-board is not equal to that of the Irish peasantry in the county of Kerry, who play the game of backgammon without the aid of a box or dice, marking the score on the grass; small stones and slates represent the black and white men of the contending parties; a third person sits at a little distance with his back to the players, and, not knowing whose move it is, or the state of the game, calls out, size-ace—quatre-cinque, &c. &c. ad libitum.

New Orleans Enterprise forever.—The New Orleans papers announced some six or eight weeks since, that the merchants of that city were about to get up a line of packet ships to Havre, and another to Liverpool, and that subscription books for the same had already been opened. The same papers now state that, with a month's drumming by the projectors of the scheme, the enormous sum of eleven thousand dollars has been pledged for its fulfilment! That's what Solomon Swap would call "small potatoes, few in a hill, and the hills a dreadful ways apart."

A letter writer in the New York Commercial describes Tah-wa-que-nah, (Mountain of Rocks,) a Camanche Chief, as the largest Indian he ever saw—a monster in size, in aspect, and who has proved himself a monster in disposition. He supposes his weight to be 300 pounds with much of the African features in his face, and a beard of two inches in length on his chin and lip.

BENJAMIN LORING & CO. 122 State street, have just received by the Cameo, from London, a new article of the Steel Pen, manufactured by Perryian, the original inventor of this most wonderful improvement.

Patent Perryian Regulating Flat Spring Pen.—The flexibility given to this pen by the flat spring is superior to that found in the best quill, it may be made harder or softer, by placing the pen higher or lower in the holder; will write on any sort of paper with the greatest freedom, and never fatigues the hand.

Patent Perryian Regulating Spring Pen.—The novel invention, by means of the regulating spring, commands all the ease and freedom of the best quill; it may also be made harder or softer, to suit the hand or taste of the writer, by simply moving the spring higher or lower, according to the degree of flexibility required.

Patent Perryian Elastic Pen Holder, with appropriate Pens.—The novel construction of the elastic holder, confers in the Pen unequalled advantages, by imparting an agreeable softness and flexibility, rendering it so perfectly unrestrained in its action, that it never fatigues the hand, and enables it to pass over any description of paper with ease and expedition.

Patent Perryian India Rubber Spring Pen.—This novel application of Caoutchouc effects an extraordinary elasticity in the patent pen, and its advantages over the quill must be universally acknowledged.

DR. PHELPS' ARCANUM.—This Syrup is celebrated for the Cure of Scrofula, Eruptions or Diseases of the skin, Syphilis or Venereal Complaints, Rheumatism, Ulcers in the Throat and other parts of the Body, Mercurial Affections, Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Blood, Deep seated pains in the Muscles, Bones, &c. and a regenerator of emaciated and broken Constitutions, caused by disease, intemperance, &c.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Having been made acquainted with the medical qualities and witnessed the effects of "Dr Phelps' Arcanum," I feel much confidence in saying it is a preparation of medicine greatly superior to any thing of the kind, in curing those chronic diseases for which it is intended, and recommend it to invalids in preference to any other article whatever

SAMUEL L. MITCHELL, M. D.

New York, March 25, 1830.

My knowledge of the properties and operation of the "Arcanum of Dr Phelps," justify me in saying that it is far superior to any depurative syrup with which I am acquainted. In the most obstinate and ambiguous deseases, it displays effects peculiarly surprising. In those affections that resist the skill of the physician, such as Rheumatism, Syphilis, Scrofula, Ulcerations, and Diseases of the Skin, &c., I would recommend it as worthy of great confidence. JOHN D. GODMAN, M. D.

Philadelphia. Nov. 27, 1829.

For the last few years I have suffered excessively by a Billious Mercurial Disease, which has rendered me frequently unfit for duty, and confined me as often to my berth. My disease was the sequela of bad treatment, while in the more tropical latitudes, and laboring under an acute inflamation of the liver, and other Billiary organs. Prior and pubsequently to our arrival in this port, I have had recourse to a great variety of prescriptions, medicines and nostrums—among which, were a number of bottles of Swaim's Panacea, Potter's Catholicon, the Rob of Laffecteur, &c., but without any benefit—Dr Phelps being at that time a student of medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, advised me to make use of a newly discovered medicine, the Arcanum, which he believed would succeed in relieving me, in consequence of the very signal effects himself and others had observed in its operation in various glandular diseases, that were otherwise considered incurable. I commenced its use accordingly, and it affords me pleasure to state, that for several months past, not a vestige of the original or secondary disease has been discoverable. I prize the medicine above all others with which I have ever been acquainted. It is both pleasant and I believe certain it its effects, as a remidy in a variety of chronic diseases, incident to tropical and other climates. J. ANDREWS, Purser of the Columbian Brig Pinchinca. Philadelphia, Jan. 5, 1835.

SAVANNAH, 6th March. 1831.

GENT.—I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude to you in offering me a bottle of DR PHELPS' ARCANUM, as an experiment in my case of Rheumatism. I have been dreadfully afflicted for upwards of twelve months, and for the last four or five months have scarcely been able to walk. I have used a dozen bottles of Swaim's Panacea, and found very little benefit from it. After taking the bottle of Arcanum, I found such a change in my whole system, that I was induced to try another, and to my surprise, the pains in my legs all disappeared, and the Ulcers in one have completely healed up, and I can walk nearly as well as ever. I shall continue to take two bottles more, and firmly believe it will make a complete cure of my disease. I remain, gentlemen, yours very respectfully,

JNO. MORRALL

Messrs Lay & Hendrickson, Druggists, Savannah, (Geo.)

Extract of a letter from Dr Jones, a highly respectable physician, dated Baton Rogue, Louisiana, Dec. 28, 1833.—The Arcanum had two powerful competitors, Swaim's Panacea, and Potter's Catholicon, which have been for years in circulation in this place. As far as I have had an opportunity of ascertaining its virtues, I believe the Arcanum to be superior to any article of the kind, yet offered to the public. I prescribed it in a case of Irritable Ulcer of three years standing, situated on the Malleolus Extrenus—the individual thus afflicted was much emaciated and debilitated,—after one week's attendance, I put him upon the Arcanum, following the directions three bottles nearly effected a cure of the ulcer and bodily health.

I prescribed it in several Mercurial and Syphilitic Affections, where it proved salutary. I am at this time trying the Arcanum on an individual, who has been laboring under Ulcerous affections of one of his legs, for fifteen years,—he has taken 1 bottle only, and it has produced that effect, he is sanguine in the belief, it will effect a permanent cure.

INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE AND BILIOUS COMPLAINTS. ANDERSON'S VEGETABLE ELIXIR, for Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Jaundice and Bilious Complaints weakness of the Stomach and Bowels, and consequent loss of appetite; nervous complaints, headach, sour stomach, flatulence and habitual costiveness.

This medicine is composed entirely of vegetable substances is perfectly safe in its operation, and may be given to children or persons of the most delicate habit, without the least risk of inconvenience.

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where it has been extensively used, in Boston and various other parts of the United States, and in the West Indies, attested by disinterested and highly respectable persons, affords, next to a trial of the medicine itself, the best commentary upon its virtues, and the best recommendation which can be offered to those who are unacquainted with it.

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years. 'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting pains over almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain attended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two or three days. During one of these most severe attack I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the stomach and invigorating the whole system, and judging by my own case, I consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs, to be a very valuable medicine.

It has been found singularly efficacious in cases of the most obstinate headache.

It is put up in large bottles containing a pound and a half and sold at seventy-five cents each, by Jonathan P. Hall, Jr. No. 1, Union street, John P. Whitwell, Milk street, John I. Brown, near Boylston Market, Erastus S. Holden, near the Western Avenue, Richard A. Newell, Summer street, Boston, Samuel Kidder & Co. Charlestown, E. G. Lemon, Roxbury.

ADAMS'S PATENT

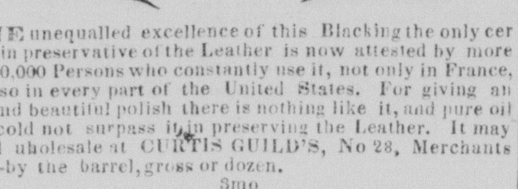

THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swelled Beam Windlass Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)

Orders thankfully received, and promptly attended to

Later from France.—By the ship Spartan, Capt. Bunting, arrived yesterday from Havre, Paris papers have been received to the 24th, and Havre to the 26th of May inclusive.—N. Y. Com.

Accounts had been received at Paris of the formation of the new ultra liberal ministry in Spain. M. Isturiz, minister of foreign affairs and of the interior and president of the council. Gen. Soane, minister of war. Senor Galiano, of marine, and Solarte of finance. The minister of Justice not yet appointed.

Gen. Evans was in daily expectation of a reinforcement of 12,000 Spanish troops, who had obtained leave to march through the French territory, and on their arrival it was supposed that he would make a vigorous attack on the Carlists. The head quarters of Don Carlos were at Villa Franca.

Reports were circulated in Paris that serious disturbances had taken place at Madrid, and that the queen had been compelled to reinstate M. Mendizabal; but no authentic intelligence of this nature had been received.

The French government had despatched another expedition in search of La Lilloise, from which no tidings have been received for three years.

It is said Talleyrand was dangerously ill.

The following is an extract of a letter from Rome. It is generally known that the family of Lucien Bonaparte reside at Canino, of which he is the Proprietor. Two of his sons, giving way to the impetuosity of youth, engaged in a quarrel with the game-keeper, and the latter was killed. The Roman government immediately sent a detatchment of carbineers to the spot with an order to arrest the two princes; they, however, made resistance, and were joined by other young men of the neighborhood. The officer commanding the detachment was shot dead by a pistol from one of the Princes. The contest became general; several persons were wounded, and among others, the sub-lieutenant and two carbineers dangerously so. The government force finally obtained the victory; one of the princes escaped, but the other was immediately sent under an escort to Rome, where he arrived on the 5th, shortly after the news of the event had reached government. It is said that the lieutenant who was killed is related to a prelate.

☞ A Committee of the Roxbury Temperance Society, consisting of five gentlemen, three of whom are clergymen, has called upon and notified the innholders and retailers of ardent spirits in Roxbury, that, after the seventh day of July next, it is their duty to prosecute them so far as shall be necessary to put an entire stop to the traffic; and that they shall employ for that purpose such council, and call for such aid, as shall be requisite and proper.—Extracts from the Records of the Roxbury Temperance Society were furnished by the Committee to the persons notified, signed, "John W. Sullivan, Secretary."

The Reverends appear to be getting along pretty well—they have assumed the duties of prosecuting officers, expounders and administrators of the law, and have but little more to do to become the complete rulers of the people, civil, military, and ecclesiastical.

Fatal Duel near Washington.—The Correspondent of the Journal of Commerce states that on Wednesday evening a duel was fought a short distance from Washington, by two Midshipmen of the Navy, viz.—John H. Sherburne, and Daniel Key, son of Francis S. Key. Young Key was shot through the body and died on the field. His remains were brought to the residence of his family, giving the first intimation of this heart rending affair. No particulars could be learned. Not a whisper was heard of the business until all was over. The carriage was met on the avenue bringing in the dead body.

The Missouri Excitement.—The Jacksonville Patriot, in alluding to the affray between Col. Muldrow and Dr. Boone, says the popular fury ran so high that another individual, Dr. Nelson, had been forced to make his escape to Quincy and throw himself on the protection of the citizens of that place—his pursuers, armed with rifles, arrived soon after he did, and demanded that he should be given up, and it being subsequently ascertained that he had no participation in the serious affray, he was assured that he had nothing to fear and that he might return to Missouri with perfect safety.

Miss Misca would say, that she never lived as a servant in Dr. Channing's family, neither in any other. She was employed, as a governess in the family of the French Gen. Simon Bernard, in the cities of New York and Washington, in the years of 1825, and 6. She would make the statement, learning that a report contrary to this, has been circulated and believed among her friends not particularly acquainted with her history.

If there are any individuals who doubt the above, Miss Misca says she may be found at No. 3 Howard St.

The Bunker Hill Monument Meeting, in Charlestown on Friday evening, was well attended, and the following committee was appointed to request the Young Men of other towns throughout the State, to call meetings of their fellow citizens to act on the question: Will they assist in the completion of Bunker Hill Monument?—viz:—Robt. C. Winthrop, Albert Fearing, Charles H. Parker, Thos. J. Shelton, Chas. G. Greene, Seth J. Thomas, Joshua Bates, Jr., James Dana, Geo. W. Warren, and Wm. Sawyer.

Arrival of the Ontario.—The U. S. sloop of war Ontario, arrived at New York on Thursday evening from Brazil. She left Rio Janeiro April 22d, Bahia May 7th, Pernambuco 15th, Maranham 31st. Advices had been received at Maranham from Para to May 16th. The city was still in the hands of the insurgents, though its capture by the government forces was anticipated daily. The following is a list of the officers of the Ontario:—

A revolting murder was recently committed at Grand Gulf, Mississippi. A negro man murdered a negro woman with a bowie knife, and afterwards stabbed her master, and cut his heart out. He was immediately arrested and condemned to be burnt to death over a slow fire, and the sentence was forthwith put into execution.

Accident.—Mr. James W. MacFarline was seriously injured in New York, on Thursday by the fall of a ladder from the side of a house in MacDougal street. He is bruised in various parts of the body, and one of his legs fractured.

A daughter of a respectable merchant in Philadelphia ran away with her lover the other day, after replenishing her purse with all the ready in her father's money draw.

The Walnut street Theatre, Philadelphia, has been presented as a nuisance, and the presentment returned by the Recorder, because the lessees were not named in the indictment.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, June 22, the bill to regulate the deposites of the public money came back from the House of Representatives with an amendment, which was, after a short debate, agreed to.

The bill to provide for the erection of a new building for the Patent Office was taken up, considered, and ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

The Senate then took up the Message of the President, returning, with his objections, the bill to change the time of meeting of Congress, &c. on which a constitutional discussion took place. The bill was then laid on the table till tomorrow. After the consideration of Executive business, the Senate adjourned.

In the House of Representatives, a considerable time was spent, after meeting, in discussing and settling the priority of business.

Mr. Adams presented the protest of certain Cherokee Chiefs against the Treaty lately promulgated as having been made with that nation; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole that has a bill upon that subject under consideration.

The amendments of the Senate to the bill to re-organize the Post Office were read, and referred to the Post Office Committee.

The remainder of the day, after the morning business, was spent in the discussion of the bill making additional appropriations for the Delaware breakwater, and for other ports and harbors.

Thursday June 23.—In the Senate, the Chair presented a communication from the Secretary of State, with copies of all the charters of banking institutions granted by the Territorial Legislature of Florida.

Mr. Clay, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, made a report on the papers and correspondence referred to them, connected with the controversy with G. Britain in relation to our north eastern boundary. Mr. C. stated that although there was not an absolute termination of the controversy, several expedients, to which resort had been made, had terminated; and there was reason to fear that there would be no speedy conclusion of the controversy. The committee were of opinion that more mischief might arise from misconceptions of what had been done, than from the publication of the papers and correspondence, which publication they therefore recommend, and Mr C. moved that they should be printed. Mr. Shepley moved the printing of 3000 extra copies which was ordered accordingly.

In the House, the Senate bill to reduce the duty on rail road iron was reported without amendment and passed. The bill organizing the Post Office department, was reported with a recommendation that the Senate's amendments be adopted—the House then went into Committee of the Whole on the bill—the amendments of the Senate raising the salaries of certain officers and clerks in the department, and striking out the 43d and 44th sections, restricting the Post Masters from deriving any profit from Post Office boxes, were disagreed to. The Committee rose, without reporting the bill and amendments.

The House was engaged until the recess, on the bill making additional appropriations for the Delaware Breakwater, and for the improvement of certain Rivers and Harbors.

The opposition are exceedingly lacrymose over the case of Major Gates, whose name has been stricken from the army role by the President. They have the unblushing effrontery to say that Maj. Gates was broken without a trial, although well aware that he was fully heard before the court of inquiry invited by himself, and its report against him sanctioned by Gen. Scott.

Incendiaries.—Unsuccessful attempts were made during Friday night to burn Mr Tuttle's baker shop, in Salem street, by placing combustibles between the shutters and the window—and also to destroy his dwelling house in Ann street court, by entering the cellar and setting fire to the cellar stairs.

Thomas G. Farnsworth, Esq., who has conducted the [illegible] Banner, for the last two years, has retired from editorial life. He has made the Banner both useful and interesting, and we deeply regret to bid him, editorially, adieu. The worst wish we wish him is, that he may find pleasanter and more profitable business.

We have Augusta (Ga) dates to the 17th inst., but nothing new from the Indian country. The troops near Columbus, 3000 in number, have been unable to take the field for want of arms. The report that 2000 Indians had crossed the river, is confirmed.

Our neighbor of the Mercantile Journal has seen a strawberry which measured an inch and a quarter in length, and three inches and three quarters in circumference! A friend at our elbow says he has a box of strawberries as large as this.

"Come under my hat, and save a ducking, said an impudent fellow to a pretty little Miss, in the street in Baltimore, on a rainy day—"there is one calve's head under it already, and that is as many as it will cover conveniently," replied the damsel.

POLICE COURT.

The Editor of the Illuminator.—The examination of William R. Hall, for an assault on Joseph A. Whitmarsh, on Thursday afternoon, came on on Saturday, and was by far the most curious of any judicial proceeding which has taken place in this city for years. Mr Whitmarsh, in commenting on his recent conviction for a libel on Mr Nichols, made a most extraordinary attack on the character of Hall and sundry other persons, who had been connected with the "Standard." As a conviction for one libel had produced no effect on Whitmarsh, Mr Hall unfortunately resorted to the cowhide, and whipped him up two pairs of stairs; and as different rumors were in circulation about the rencontre, a formal complaint for the assault and breach of the peace was preferred by Thomas R. Hofland, who was a witness to it. Whitmarsh was also summoned as a witness, but on the first day refused to appear. He, however, came on Saturday, but with the determination to answer no questions, except upon the point of the mere assault.

The junior counsel, in opening the defence, having admitted the assault, proposed to show a justification in the libellous publication referred to, and asked Whitmarsh if he was the editor of the Illuminator?

Whitmarsh—I shall answer no questions.

Court—He is not bound to answer that question, unless he is disposed to.

Mr Park—We contend that he must answer the question, unless he will say the answer may criminate himself, and I will therefore put the regular question to him:—Mr Whitmarsh, do you refuse to answer because in answering you may expose yourself to a criminal prosecution, or bring shame and disgrace upon your character?

Whitmarsh—No.

Mr Park—Then you must answer.

Whitmarsh—I decline answering any question.

Court—The law can protect you no further—you must answer.

Whitmarsh—I am the editor.

The interrogations were then continued by the counsel, and Whitmarsh made the same opposition throughout, but was compelled to answer, and admitted that he was the author of the article headed "The Libel," in the Illuminator of Wednesday, June 22, which enlarged, and aggravated the original Libel. The whole article was then read, for the purpose of establishing the justification, and at this stage Mr Park offered to move for a continuance of the case, in order to allow Mr Whitmarsh time to prove the truth of his statements relative to Mr Hall. This Court he refused to accept, and it was not therefore competent for the defendant to prove the falsehood of the charges, as the law presumed them to be false. This refusal of Whitmarsh to substantiate his article is explained by the following extract from it:—

"I stated in the first number of this paper, that it was my full determination to expose vice wherever I found it, without respect to persons. Thus far I have done so and shall do so, so long as I continue the editor of this paper, although ten thousand grand juries and petty juries should present that and me as a nuisance, and a libeller and a disturber of the public peace. Thanks be to God that the mind, the soul, cannot be chained. Thought cannot be restrained. And if my body is incarcerated in a dungeon, if my hands are not chained and I am permitted to have pen, ink and paper, I will use them. And some truths will be told, which will make the ears of even some of the great and mighty men of earth, tingle.

"I now much regret that I offered any resistance in attempting to defend myself. I believe in this respect I have acted contrary to the spirit and precepts of the gospel. I have returned evil for evil in appearing before that court with counsel and witnesses to defend myself. I have, by so doing, countenanced and encouraged a system which has its foundation in human selfishness and pride, and the only object of which is to protect men in their iniquities and sins. It is a system which encourages idolatry, lying, blasphemy, oppression, false swearing, arrogance, pride and deceit. It justifies man in exercising those prerogatives, which only belong to God, and exalts man and sets God at nought."

Before the examination was concluded, Whitmarsh left the Court without permission, and was arrested on a capias and brought back by constable Shute.

He was then put upon the stand again, and Mr Park asked him, if the defendant was the person whom he referred to as "one Hall," in his paper; and Whitmarsh, after endeavoring to avoid the question, replied —"I decline answering that question, because it may expose me to a prosecution."

Mr Park made a most eloquent and able argument in support of the justification; and, quoting various passages from the article, contended that the offence was within the jurisdiction of the Court, and that if ever there was a case, in this country or in any other, in which a person had been justifiably horsewhipped, it was this. The justification was completely made out. Whitmarsh was the very man of all others to be horsewhipped—for in the same paper that he published an aggravated and infamous libel, he had put himself out of the protection of the law, by openly avowing that he would persist in his attacks on character in defiance of Law, civil or criminal. Mr Park's argument fixed the attention of a dense crowd of spectators.

The Court, in delivering its opinion, laid down the following propositions:—The assault being premeditated to a certain degree, was therefore prima facie an aggravated assault, and not of itself and in itself within the jurisdiction of the Court; the question therefore was, could a Court not having a prima facie jurisdiction, go into the matter of justification, which might bring it within its jurisdiction? The connection of the justification with the offence was perfectly clear, for although Whitmarsh declined answering the question, it was obvious from the circumstances that the defendant was the party meant in the article; and there could be but one opinion about the character of that article. The charges must be taken for granted to be untrue—for such things cannot be presumed to be true of any man, without clear proof; and no man could hear such things said of himself without being greatly irritated—it was in the nature of human feelings to be greatly irritated by such an attack, and the defence must have very great weight in the proper Court. The question of jurisdiction, in a case of justification, had become a new one, under the Revised Statutes, and as it was of great practical importance to settle it now, Mr Justice Rogers said he would consult the full Court, and give his final opinion on Friday next.

All the papers have done justice to Mr Hallett's defence of Whitmarsh, but he says—

"The controversy between my counsel and the court relative to the law of libel, was untimely and should not have been introduced in the case."

The Cherokees.—It appears from a letter just received from the Cherokee country, that there is no truth in the reports of hostilities on the part of the Cherookees; and that the friends of the treaty, on their return to their homes, have been kindly received by the people. We believe no difficulties need to be apprehended from those Indians, if the appropriations called for by the treaty are made immediately, so as to enable the Government to carry into effect its provisions to supply the poor and destitute among them with food and provide for their removal.—Globe.

Distressing Accident.—On Sunday, the 12th inst George Ware, son of Mr. Duty Ware of Franklin, was very severely injured by a fall from a tree. The dog had treed a coon, and young Ware ascended for the purpose of shaking the animal from the tree, but a limb giving way, he was precipitated a distance of 20 feet to the ground, and had his back broken by the fall. His age is 18 or 19. He was alive at last accounts, but had lost all sense of feeling in his lower limbs and was not expected to survive.—Dedham Adv.
